

ACTIVITY SHEET
TWENTY QUESTIONS

- | | | |
|--|---|---|
| 1. All students pursuing an ambition to play a professional sport will meet that goal. | T | F |
| 2. Communication skills are not an important aspect of a career. | T | F |
| 3. Take just any job, complete the training, and—if you don't like it—quit. | T | F |
| 4. Math and science fields are fast-growing areas of employment. | T | F |
| 5. In order to improve your success in job hunting, build a network of people who know your character and qualifications. | T | F |
| 6. Volunteering in your community would be of no help in exploring career paths. | T | F |
| 7. Lifelong learning is important as people change jobs more frequently in their lifetimes. | T | F |
| 8. Transferable skills are not necessary in today's working society. | T | F |
| 9. Baby boomers are those born between 1943 and 1960, and they are beginning to retire. Knowing this could make a difference in choosing a career path. | T | F |
| 10. Improve your interpersonal skills by becoming more culturally aware. | T | F |
| 11. A myth about your career decisions is that once you make a decision you just must live with it. | T | F |
| 12. Setting long-term goals is of no use to me or anyone else. | T | F |
| 13. Never give up, even though sometimes you must redirect. | T | F |
| 14. Employees get all their work completed in a 40-hour workweek. | T | F |
| 15. Be flexible. | T | F |
| 16. After an interview, prospective employees should hand-write a thank you note to the interviewer. | T | F |
| 17. What I wear to an interview doesn't affect the outcome. | T | F |
| 18. Finding a path to a satisfying career requires careful planning and careful decision-making, but an eighth grader doesn't really need to start the process now. | T | F |
| 19. Going to college is a career plan. | T | F |
| 20. Career planning is an ongoing process that begins with self-exploration and requires long-term goal setting and an understanding of an ever-changing job market. | T | F |

ACTIVITY SHEET—BEST ANSWERS
TWENTY QUESTIONS

- | | |
|--|-------|
| 1. All students pursuing an ambition to play a professional sport will meet that goal. | False |
| 2. Communication skills are not an important aspect of a career. | False |
| 3. Take just any job, complete the training, and—if you don't like it—quit. | False |
| 4. Math and science fields are fast-growing areas of employment. | True |
| 5. In order to improve your success in job hunting, build a network of people who know your character and qualifications. | False |
| 6. Volunteering in your community would be of no help in exploring career paths. | False |
| 7. Lifelong learning is important as people change jobs more frequently in their lifetimes. | True |
| 8. Transferable skills are not necessary in today's working society. | False |
| 9. Baby boomers are those born between 1943 and 1960, and they are beginning to retire. Knowing this could make a difference in choosing a career path. | True |
| 10. Improve your interpersonal skills by becoming more culturally aware. | True |
| 11. A myth about your career decisions is that once you make a decision you just must live with it. | False |
| 12. Setting long-term goals is of no use to me or anyone else. | False |
| 13. Never give up, even though sometimes you must redirect. | True |
| 14. Employees get all their work completed in a 40-hour workweek. | False |
| 15. Be flexible. | True |
| 16. After an interview, prospective employees should hand-write a thank you note to the interviewer. | True |
| 17. What I wear to an interview doesn't affect the outcome. | False |
| 18. Finding a path to a satisfying career requires careful planning and careful decision-making, but an eighth grader doesn't really need to start the process now. | False |
| 19. Going to college is a career plan. | False |
| 20. Career planning is an ongoing process that begins with self-exploration and requires long-term goal setting and an understanding of an ever-changing job market. | True |