Adventure Club

Adventure Club is a new outdoor program for middle and high school youth, delivered through the Exploring Program of the Learning for Life (LFL) Corporation, an affiliate of Scouting America. Designed without traditional Scouting elements like uniforms and advancement, it offers a flexible, skill-based experience focused on character and leadership development. Six program tracks – ranging from outdoor survival and adventure sports to STEM in the outdoors – allow schools and clubs to tailor the experience to their interests. Approved by the LFL Executive Board, the program aims to attract youth who prefer a modern, interest-based approach to outdoor education.

Purpose/Focus: Outdoor character and leadership development for middle and high school youth.
